Cops, Crime, & Crafting

In 1976, the Lexington County Sheriff's Department first chartered its Law Enforcement Explorer Post #106 with the Boy Scouts of America. Over the years, hundreds of young men and women from across Lexington County and throughout the Midlands of South Carolina have participated in the program and nine have become sworn law enforcement officers serving with the Sheriff's Department. Many others have continued to serve with other local, state and federal law enforcement agencies. Law Enforcement Explorers are exposed to training on all levels of law enforcement duties and principles. While exploring law enforcement as a possible career, the Explorer Cadets are instilled with a stable set of moral, ethical and professional values. Explorers often assist with community service activities such as; fingerprinting small children at festivals and community events, assisting with parking and crowd control at community festivals and parades, and assisting with the many charity fundraisers in which our deputies participate. Explorers are a vital resource to our community. With your support, we can continue to make an investment in the future of law enforcement in South Carolina. Money raised for the post is used to fund annual SCALE competitions and equipment.
